Leave a Gift in Your Will

Thank you for considering donating to Chief Executive Women. We rely on the generous time and ongoing support of our members, sponsors and partners to achieve our mission: Women Leaders Enabling Women Leaders.

Leaving a gift in your will is a very special act of generosity. If you decide to trust us with a gift from your will, we assure you CEW will invest your gift responsibly, continue to carry out our programs openly and transparently and work with all parties handling your gift with care, sensitivity and respect to ensure your wishes are met.

The most common bequest is to leave a percentage of your estate or residue of your estate, specifying an exact amount from your estate, or leaving an asset that you own.

If the bequest is an asset, there may be tax considerations for the deceased estate, and we recommend referring to an accountant.

If you would like to include a gift to CEW in your will, the following are examples of specific wording:

I give to Chief Executive Women Ltd (ABN 72 192 201 209), for its general purposes, free of all duties, the sum of $ (add amount) for which an authorised receipt from Chief Executive Women Ltd will be a sufficient discharge for the executor(s) or trustee.
